BURGLARS OPERATE AT LOCAL HARDWARE STORE

Guns and Knives Apparent Object of Search at T. P. Grant's

BORE PANEL FROM DOOR

Augur Used to Bore 34 Holes and Lock is Not Tamped With Burglars operated during Tuesday night at the hardware store of T. P. Grant on Fallowfield avenue, and got away with four revolvers and several knives. They accomplished their work after considerable trouble in effecting an entrance, literally boring their way through the rear door of the store.

Discovery of the burglary was made this morning by Curtis S. Bliss, of the store force when he opened up early. One of the lower panels of the back door was entirely out. Investigation showed that an augur had been used. Thirty-four holes had been bored and then the panel simply lifted out. The door was not even unlocked. Entrance and exit was made by the simply expedient of climbing through the hole.

Once in the store, from indications, the marauders made their way at once to the case where the revolvers and knives were kept. They selected four of the best revolvers in the case and ransacked the knife case. How many knives they took is not known owing to the large stock that was on hand.

Money evidently was not an object of search. There was some money in the store but it seemed as if the visitors simply ransacked the gun and knife case and then crawled out.

The Charleroi police force and Constable F. W. Jones were duly notified of the robbery, but they state they have no clues. The door from which the panel was removed was taken to a local lumber company for repairs.

"THE TWO ROSES" LYRIC

THEATRE FEATURE TONIGHT
"The Two Roses," with Ormi Hawley in the featuring role will be the leading production tonight at the Lyric theatre.

A very intense and dramatic story is told, the subject being the sad effects of incompatibility of temperament. Ernest Haven and his wife Edith were a worthy couple, but Ernest was a red blooded passionate man while his wife was cold and aristocratic, a type of the white rose. A woman of the red rose type comes into the life of Ernest and the fury of selfishness and infidelity take possession of his soul. The vampire triumphs and purity is crushed. The white rose withers while the red rose blooms with all its insolent beauty. Years of unhappiness pass before the wrong is righted and the recreant husband crawling back for forgiveness is restored to his lovely wife and boy. The wages of sin is death and the vampire gets her due.

Other pictures tonight at the Lyric will be "The Brute" "Shorty Makes a Bet," a comedy and "Blame the Tailor," a comedy.

Don't miss the Vaudeville at the Palace Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Special attraction booked. 232-41

To Begin Work on Hospital

Charleroi Lumber Company Preparing for Start on Brownsville Contract

Preparations are being made by the Charleroi Lumber company to start work on the erection of the Brownsville General hospital, at Brownsville. If the weather is permissible work will be begun within a week. The hospital is to be built on the corner of Church street and Fifth avenue adjoining the former site of an old school building. The location is advantageous for a hospital of the kind planned. It will be largely supported by the railroads of that community. The contract for its erection is large, approximating $42,600.

DESIRE ALARM SYSTEM

Monessen Committee Inspects Local Method of Alarm

PENALTY RATES HIGH

To get an idea of the workings of the Charleroi fire alarm system a committee from the Monessen Board of Trade visited Charleroi on Tuesday and had the Charleroi system explained. Monessen virtually has no fire alarm system, and their fire protection is of such nature that their insurance penalty rate is high. When they get their system perfected, as they propose to do, then an effort will be made to get the penalty rates reduced.

The Gamewell Fire Alarm system is used in Charleroi and has proven very successful. In Monessen there is nothing except a whistle used as a fire alarm and it is not a success from the fact that it does not indicate the location of any fire.

KNIGHTS OF MALTA TO VISIT TABERNACLE IN BODY

The Knights of Malta from all the neighboring towns as far as Pittsburgh will send delegations this evening to California to attend the evangelistic services which are being held under the direction of Dr. William Hall. Seats will be reserved for the delegation, as well as for a delegation of Normal students. About 400 conversions have taken place since the meetings began.

St. Leonard's Has Ball Team.
The St. Leonard's Lyceum at Monessen has organized a baseball team. It will open the season Saturday at Donora.

CHARLEROI LOCAL VOTES TO RETURN

Scale Proposition Given Handsome Majority by Miners Here--Tellers Complete Work at Early Hour

By a large majority the miners of the Charleroi local voted on Tuesday to return to work according to scale recommended by the policy committee of District No. 5, United Mine Workers. The vote was 108 for returning to work and 16 against returning to work.

The local vote was taken in the Charleroi Labor Temple, which was rented especially for the occasion. Tellers who served on the board were: Samuel Pardoe, John Fletcher, Frank Patterson, together with James Fillingham, president of the local and Peter Sample, secretary of the local. Voting was finished at 8 o'clock after being in progress practically all afternoon. It took the tellers only a few minutes to tally the ballots. The vote of the Charleroi local together with the vote of other locals will be taken to Indianapolis from which center the general result will be made known as soon as the national board of tellers can complete their tally.

She is survived by six sons, all living at California: D. W. Coatsworth, W. K. Coatsworth, J. E. Coatsworth, J. W. Coatsworth, George Coatsworth and Albert Coatsworth, and one daughter Mrs. William Whigham. Nineteen grandchildren also survive. J. E. and George Coatsworth constitute the Coatsworth Grocery company located at California.

MINERS WILL RETURN TO WORK NEXT MONDAY

Hundreds Out To See Fire

Small House Across Maple Creek in Speers Borough Has Hole Burned in Roof

Hundreds were attracted to the edge of town on Tuesday afternoon at 3:10 by an alarm of a fire in a small brown house that was just across Maple Creek in Speers borough a short distance from the trolley line. The fire department made a run to the place. Before the arrival of the department volunteers had formed a bucket brigade and it took but a very short time to smother the flames. The house was little damaged only a small hole being burned in the roof. A Belgium miner and his family live in the house.

SIGNING UP HIS UMPIRES

President Mackinnon of New League Gets Two Men Lined Up

CLUB MANAGERS ACTIVE

With the National American and Federal leagues getting a start on their season's schedule this week, the Pennsylvania-West Virginia League officials are getting down to brass tacks in their work of preparation. Each president and manager is signing players, and arrangements are being made for fixing up ball grounds in the different cities. There is not a team that has not secured players who are noted.

President H. A. Mackinnon at McKeesport has started to sign umpires. The first signed was Montgomery W. McCormick. McCormick worked in the Frick league in Fayette county last year. "Red" Nagle of Pittsburgh, a man well known in and about Charleroi and Monessen has been signed. Warrick, of Scottsdale is looked upon as an umpire possibility.

President Mackinnon says that umpires are to be bosses of their games. Liberties of players will not be restricted to such an extent as to make the games tiresome, but players will not be permitted to dictate to the official handlers of the indicators.

Locally President F. E. Wreath is busy with general affairs. The matter of getting subscribers to his season tickets has kept him busy.

Tonight will be the last night for receiving suggested titles for the Charleroi club. Some good suggestions have been received and the choice will in all probability be announced tomorrow.

Favorable Vote on Resolution Taken at Monongahela Convention

BREAK IS PREDICTED

Element Favors Pulling Away From United Mine Workers Organization

Miners will return to work next Monday in the Monongahela valley and other sections, according to a resolution that was adopted at a convention at Monongahela today. But they will return to work protesting and with a resolve on the part of a large element to break away from the United Mine Workers of America.

Representing 77 locals out of a possible 158, miners massed at Monongahela this morning in a continuation of a meeting that was started at Pittsburgh last week and broken up. William Robinson, of Robins station was in the chair, with William Turnblazer of California as secretary.

After much discussion concerning the matter of returning to work a resolution was presented without the sanction of the resolution committee that the miners return to work on Monday. It was adopted. The resolution reads:

Whereas, The officers of our organization are using all means in their power to force miners to go back to work and

Whereas, The miners have no help from their treasury that they created; therefore be it Resolved, That we return to work on Monday, April 20.

This afternoon the miners are in session again, and according to reports from Monongahela are engaged in a battle over a resolution to secede from the United Mine Workers of America. This idea has been advanced by some of those who have been most active in getting the Monongahela convention under way. It is proposed to form a new organization to be known as Industrial Mine Workers. The meeting at Monongahela is being held in opposition to the plans of the district officials, it seems and some sort of a break it is believed will follow.

Word from various parts of the district seem to indicate that in the referendum vote that was taken Tuesday, there was much of a division. However, from what can be learned the vote stands favorable to the acceptance of the wage scale. At Vesta No. 4 mine the vote went 277 for the scale and 60 against, and Crescent miners voted six for the scale and 270 against. At Black Diamond where there is an element opposed to the district officials, the vote stood 40 for to 163 against the scale, and at Catsburg the vote went almost directly the opposite, the scale being favored by a large majority. While no definite results have been learned from the vote taken by the Henderson Coal company miners who work at the East Charleroi mine, it is understood that they are favorable to the scale. As stated in another column the miners of the Charleroi coal mine of the Carnegie Coal company voted favorably to the acceptance of the scale.

RETRIBUTE JUSTICE

The execution of the four so-called gunmen in New York, which has attracted widespread attention from the fact that the case was one of the extreme climaxes of municipal corruption and misrule, is received with general satisfaction by the public.
Not that the people as a rule are blood-thirsty and desire to see blood shed for blood, but because there was such a desperate attempt made to set aside the mandates of the law by the unseemly forces of the powers that prey.

It was this brazen attempt that made the public demand the death of the gunmen. Personally nothing but pity can be accorded the poor wretches who were made dupes of the nefarious system of the exploitation of vice. The startling crime that was committed deliberately to cover up a threatened exposure demonstrates what a power commercialized vice exercises over society. The exasperat-ing part is the influences that are bought to bear to cover up the crime and shield the perpetrators.

This is what society has to contend with in every community. The exploitation of vice is exceedingly profitable and when permitted to flourish unchecked involves so many branches of society that it is well nigh impossible to secure convictions even when startling exposures are made.

DANGER IN ATHLETICS.

Inasmuch as the fundamental aim of athletics is, or at any rate ought to be, health, it is not unreasonable to ask in what degree each type of game or sport approaches this ideal of contributing to a sound body and the enjoyment of its physical resources.
It will probably be found difficult to compare the health giving virtues of tennis, of skating and basket-ball, of rowing and tug-of-war. The factors of enjoyment, of the special participation of definite organs of the body, of opportunity, season, environment, etc., are too complicated to permit a very critical analysis. But Dr. Bartsch of Heidelberg has wisely suggested that it may become feasible to correlate the dangers attending the various athletic sports and to furnish a sort of "scale" whereby one could determine the relative likelihood of damage or injury to be encountered in the prominent athletic pastimes. This is not unlike the condition in industrial occupations, for many of which the incidence of accident and harm is known.

If the statistics of accidents in athletics, and the personal hurt that results, all too often, could be gathered in some way for purposes of public contrast, the physician and physical culture teacher could advise more intelligently regarding the destructivity of participation. We believe, however, says The Journal of the American Medical Association, that the greatest advantage of this suggestion would lie in the reforms which the acts thus elicited would inevitably promote.

A few well-attested data regarding the undoubted dangers of crew races, of football and some other muchvaunted sports might serve to direct public attention to the abuses of athletics. The promoters are then usually quick to respond.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

Discussing the question of "Farm Arithmetic" for rural schools, the editor of the Farm and Fireside says: I have before me a "Rural Arithmetic" published by Ginn & Company.
Its author, John E. Calfee of Berea College Normal, has done a good piece of work in the book, but not enough.
Too much of it is taken up by problems of making change at the store, and by abstract operations.

Again, many of the problems which seem like farm operations, are really not practical.
"If 10 acres are .8 of a potato field, how many acres are there in the field?" is a problem on page 16. This looks like a farm problem; but is it?
I do not think it as good a rural-school problem as it might be. I think it would have been better if the author had asked the pupils to work this problem:

"One of my potato patches was sprayed with Bordeaux mixture, and the other of the same size was not.
On the unsprayed patch I got only .8 as much as on the sprayed patch, where I got a full crop. The yield on the unsprayed patch was 10 bushels.
How much did I get from the sprayed patch? How much did I lose by not spraying, not counting the cost of spraying? Why do we spray potatoes with Bordeaux mixture?"

But there are some fine problems in the book. Here are some of them:
"A self-binder that cost a merchant $100 was left out in the open for two years, and then sold for $50. Money being worth 6 per cent, estimate the cost of this carelessness."

This is good, but why not have stated it in terms of farm use, instead of legging in the merchant?

"If a hired hand while cultivating young corn covers up 10 hills to the acre, what is the value of the corn destroyed, counting 2 ears to the hill and 100 ears to the bushel, at 50 cents per bushel?"

This is good, but here's a better one:

"Keep a strict account of the amount of feed given a flock of hens for a month and the number of eggs laid. At the local price of feed and eggs, determine the profit or loss on the flock for the period."

This leads right into farm operations. Calfee's Rural Arithmetic is a far better book than the ones I studied, but he should revise it "upward."

TRAINING CHILD MIND

DISORDERLINESS A THING TO BE CORRECTED EARLY.

Responsibility Rests with Mother When She Allows Bad Habits to Become a Settled Thing in the Life of Offspring.

If I had only realized when I was a child how much more work it made to have people disorderly and careless about their things I am sure I should have been more careful. But I didn't realize, writes Ruth Cameron in the Milwaukee Sentinel.

That is the oft expressed sentiment of one young woman who has recently gone to housekeeping in a home of her own. And I fancy there are many of us who could say the same thing—we didn't realize! And not about that matter only, but about many matters.
I have heard it said that children are naturally selfish. I beg to differ.
I think they are naturally full of the most generous impulses. But I do admit that they are naturally thoughtless and that is what makes them seem selfish. It is not that they would be deliberately selfish and unkind; it is just that they have lived so short a time that they do not understand the trouble and pain and self-denial they may be the cause of—they just don't realize!

I once knew a wise mother who grasped this fact and based her training on the effort to make her children realize exactly what they were doing when they were thoughtless or careless or unreasonable.

For instance, take the very matter of which the young housewife spoke.
This mother had a daughter who was terribly slack about leaving things around. She would come into the house and leave her coat on one chair and her fur on another, throw her gloves on the table and put her hat-pins on the mantelpiece and only put away her hat because she was afraid something would happen to the feathers if she didn't. Her mother talked and talked to no avail. Finally she decided to make the daughter realize the trouble she was causing, so she told her that for the next week she,
the mother, would not pick up one thing that any of the children left lying around, that her daughter must keep the house in order as a punishment for past misdeeds and that if she failed to do so she would not be allowed to go to a certain function to which she was looking forward.

As all the children inherited more or less a tendency to disorderliness from an artistic father, her task was by no means easy. Needless to say, the end of the week found her saying: "I never realized how much trouble leaving things round made. I will be more careful in the future."

Again, when the two older children got the habit of teasing for things that were beyond the family purse, this wise woman, instead of scolding, simply took them into her confidence about the family income and outgo asked their help about keeping the accounts, and without saying a word of her purpose to them, soon made them realize for themselves why they could not have everything that other children had. And after that she had no more trouble with teasing.

Look back into your own childhood and see if the unkind, the selfish, the thoughtless, the cruel things that you did were not all done because you did not realize.

What better basis, then, could we have for training our children than helping them to realize now instead of years afterward when it is too late?

Queen Helene's Charity.

The Italian people, who are given to sentiment, adore the Queen Helene because she loves the poor. Recently a woman with her little boy presented herself at the dispensary of the Via Morsini, at Rome. The child was alarmingly ill. When the doctor came to see the little patient, a woman, plainly dressed, who had entered a moment before, stopped to hear what the physician was saying. Then, seeing the mother in tears, she said:
"Your child will require special care.
It will be necessary to send him to the hospital." "I know that he will die there," said the poor mother, "and yet I cannot keep him at home, we are so poor." "I understand you," said the woman, sympathetically. "I too, am a mother," and she placed in the hand of the poor woman a bank note for 100 lire. "Your child shall lack for nothing, my good woman.
Come and see me at the palace." And this was Queen Helene.

His Part in the Game.

William Faversham was talking modestly about an article on women's Easter dress that he had written.

"If the article made a hit," he said,
"it was because I wrote it calmly, without heat or rancor. I didn't treat this important subject like Spratt."

"Spratt, you know," said to his bookkeeper:

"My wife brought home a new Easter hat last evening—one mass of yellow paradise plumes—ninety-seven plunks."

"How'd you like it?" asked the bookkeeper.

"Oh, I just raved over it," said Spratt.

Benefactor of Humanity.

"I understand that the young man in the house next to you is a finished cornetist?"

"Geed! Is he? I was just screwing up my courage to finish him myself.
Who did it?"

Advertising

THERE once was an assumption that men who advertised were fraudulent in their intents, hence arose the idea that advertising was unethical and this fallacy still obtains in the traditions of a few certain societies and professions.

COMMONSENSE people all now recognize the value of letting the public know who you are, and what you have to offer in the world in the way of commodity or service.

WHEN we speak of advertising we speak of the most powerful force that acts today in the world of business.

THE American people form by all odds the best educated and most open-minded public in the world. All they want is the truth, and when get that, they act clearly, logically and some times with surprising speed.

THE public wants to know the facts. It wants the facts about a kind of shoe or a brand of flour. It wants to know the kind of stuff that goes into a suit of clothes or a package of crackers.

The One Thing Above All Others The Public Demands is Publicity

IT has learned to be very skeptical about any event that occurs in the dark.

DO not keep your light under a bushel and create the opinion that you are no longer in business. Let the people know what you have to offer to them.

TRUTH TRIUMPHS

Charleroi Citizens Testify for the Public Benefit.

A faithful statement of a Charleroi citizen, given in his own words, should convince the most skeptical about the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills. If you suffer from backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, urinary disorders or any form of kidney ill, use a tested kidney medicine.

A Charleroi citizen tells of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Could you demand more convincing proof of merit?

Mrs. Charles Bromwich, 714 Washington Avenue, Charleroi, Pa., says:
"About two years ago I had a severe attack of kidney disease. I suffered from pain across the small of my back and had headaches and a constant tired feeling. Nothing I took helped me. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended and I began taking them. In a few days I felt better and I continued until I was cured. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me a permanent cure and I was pleased to recommend them some years ago. I think as highly of the remedy now as ever."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that

AFTER COUGHING TWO YEARS

Waycross, Ga. Woman Found Relief
In Vinol.

Did you ever cough for a week?
Then just think how distressing it must be to have a cough hang on for two years.

Mrs. D. A. McGee, Waycross, Ga., says: "I had a very heavy cold which settled into a chronic cough which kept me awake nights for full-two years and felt tired all the time. The effect of taking your cod liver and iron remedy, Vinol, is that my cough is gone. I can now get a good night's rest and I feel much stronger in every way. I am 74 years old."

It is the combined action of the medicinal elements of the cod's livers aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron, which makes Vinol so efficient for chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis—at the same time building up the weakened, run-down system.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Pipper Bros., Drugists, Charleroi, Pa.

P. S.—If you have any skin trouble try Saxo Salve. We guarantee it.

Value of Trees.

The soil is a resource of priceless value. Its formation on rocks is exceedingly slow. According to Prof. J.
Bowman, many glacial scratches, that were made on rock during the last glacial period, between 60,000 and 70, 000 years ago, are still as fresh as if they had been made only yesterday.
Yet since the glaciers thus recorded themselves man has come up from the cave and the stone hammer. Seventy thousand years is a very short time for the development of a soil cover; for man it means a period so great that the mind can hardly grasp it. The cutting off of the trees exposes the soil so that the rain beats upon it, and since it has lost the protection that the roots and the litter on the ground afforded the soil is soon washed away. In fifty years a single lumber merchant can deprive the race of soil that required 10,000 years to form—Youth's Companion.

All Practical Men.

"You must have a remarkably efficient board of health in this town," remarked the visitor.

"Right you are," replied the shrewd native.

"Composed of scientists, I presume?"

"No, sir. Scientists are too theoretical."

"Physicians, perhaps?"

"Not much. We don't allow doctors on our board of health—no, sir—nor undertakers, either."

"Hum! What sort of men have you chosen?"

"Life insurance agents."

Historic London Building.

The Inn of Court hotel, London, which is to become the telephone exchange for Holborn, began life as the Blue Boar tavern in Plantagenet times taking its name from the crest of the De Veres, who owned the land thereabouts. When its neighbor and rival, the George inn, was demolished under Queen Anne, the Blue Boar annexed the name George as its subtitle. It was at the Blue Boar that Cromwell, disguised as a trooper, stopped a man about to set out for Dover. In his saddle he found a letter from Charles I. which determined him on the king's execution.

MADE HIM FEEL LONESOME

Sam Blythe, on the Water Wagon, Found That He Had No One to Play With.

Two years ago Sam Blythe, the writer, elected to mount the water cart. He became boastfully, painfully, selfishly arid. For a time false friends tried to lure him back into the shackles—between September 15, 1911, and June 23, 1912, he received 418 bottles of whisky from 312 persons—but they finally gave it up as a bad job. The other day Blythe was talking with two saxs of the demon at the Waldorf.
By and by their mania came upon them. They began to edge toward the bar.

"Well, Sam, see you later," they said.

"No," said Blythe. "Dunno. You may not care to have me in your little party, but I am going right along.
I will drink water, or buttermilk, or ginger ale, or any non-alcoholic thing you say, but I am not going to stay out here all alone."

"Why, Sam, you're welcome," said the bond slaves, feebly.

"No, I am not," said Blythe. "I can tell by the tone of your voices.
I spent the best 20 years of my life making a collection of drinking friends, and now I have no one to play with."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Women Carried Dogs Long Ago.

Plutarch wrote about women who carried dogs about in their arms, and one of the Roman emperors said something about women who fussed over lapdogs when they should be lavishing their attention upon babies. The emperors wasn't, and probably didn't pretend to be, making an original observation.

The fact about dogs—and it is not new—is that some persons like them greatly, some like them less and some do not like them. It is very much the same about boiled turnips or clam chowder. But depth of feeling and easily engendered animosity, suddenness in quarrel, are sometimes more noticeable in discussions of the question of whether dogs should be liked than that of whether the flavor of turnips is agreeable or otherwise, though the discussion is as fruitless of other results as an argument about flavor.

IMPORTS ITS PAVING STONES

Peculiar Condition of Affairs Existing in Brazil Is Due to Savage Indians.

Street paving in the towns of the Amazon seaboard and of the Amazon river region is not the simple matter it becomes in this country. Because of the lack of accessible quarries from which paving material might be obtained, it is necessary to import cobblestones from Portugal for this purpose. Stone quarries in the lower Amazon basin are non-existent, and the headwaters of this great river where it would doubtless be possible to locate quarries—are not only practically unexplored, but are also guarded by many tribes of hostile Indians.

No one has yet been found who will brave these dangers for the sake of the despised cobblestone. Asphalt or crude oil is unsuitable for paving the thoroughfare of tropical cities because of the intense heat. The city of Para, situated near the mouth of the Amazon, is the largest user of Portuguese paving stones. This metropolis lies almost on the equator, and is the chief "rubber port" of Brazil.

HAD THE DESIRED RESULT

Preacher's Parable Extremely Effective in Filling the Depleted Coffers of the Church.

The collections at the negro church had been far from satisfactory, and the parson had racked his brains to find a source to enlarge it. Finally he hit upon a plan.

The following Sunday, at church, he got up and said: "Brethren, dere's been a mos' unfortunate occurrence here last night. A friend of mine has told me that his chickens was stolen las' night. Now, he's done got his suspicions ob who done it, and he tells me that the guilty persons is in de habit ob giving sparingly at church. Bredderen, pass de plate."

Every one gave freely and watched his neighbor to see what he would give. The parson rubbed his hands gleefully as he counted the collection. "Bredderen," he said, "Ah wants to thank you for you mos' generous contribution. As to de chicken stealing Ah'll relieve you by tellin' you dat dat was a parable gotten up fo' de benefit ob religion."

Lammas Day in England.

Lammas, as August 1 is popularly called, was formerly our national festival. It remains an important date, not only in Scotland, where this is a quarter day, but in many parts of rural England, where the pasture of "Lammas lands" belongs after August 1 to all parishioners who draw smoke, not through pipes, but chimneys. The word "Lammas" is a corruption of Loaf Mass, so-called because on this day it was once customary to present at church a loaf made from the new corn. Perhaps some relic of this custom still lingers among Sussex farmers, who try to get a loaf baked from the new wheat before the end of Goodwood week. During the eighteenth century the Dissenters of London kept high festival on Lammas day to commemorate the death of Queen Anne. If she had lived they would have been deprived by the "Schism Bill" of the liberty of educating their own children.—London Chronicle.

Eggs When Not Used as Food.

For burns and scalds nothing is more soothing than the white of an egg, which may be poured over the wound. It is softer as a varnish than collodion, and, being always at hand, can be easily applied. It is also more cooling than the sweet oil and cotton which were formerly supposed to be the surest application to allay the smarting pain. The egg is considered to be one of the best remedies for dysentery. Beaten up slightly, with or without sugar, and swallowed at a gulp, it tends, by its emollient qualities, to lessen the inflammation of the stomach and intestines, and by forming a transient coating on these organs, to enable nature to resume her healthful sway over a diseased body. Two, or at most three eggs per day would be all that is required in ordinary cases; and since egg is not merely medicine but food as well, the lighter the diet otherwise and the quieter the patient is kept the more certain and rapid is the recovery.

Milk in Red Bottles.

The discovery is said to have been made that milk kept in red bottles will remain sweet and pure longer than when kept in plain glass or other colored bottles. Experiments have been made with the spectrum to determine which of the rays of light affect milk, and it has been found that it is the rays toward the violet and of the spectrum that do the mischief. The red ray is stronger and more neutralizing and probably has some neutralizing effect upon the lacteal microbe. If experiments confirm the theory that the red bottle preserves the milk better than the bottle now in use, the red bottle should be adopted generally. Such a change will create a new set of milk bottle millionaires.—Knickerbocker Press.

FELL FROM THE SKY

REMARKABLE STORY OF THE FINDING OF DIAMOND.

Wonderfully Beautiful Jewel Alleged to Have Been Found Long Ago in Hole in Earth That Had Been Cleft by Thunderbolt.

"Two hundred years ago a peasant family lived in a Swiss hamlet, and one evening a terrific storm broke from the Alps, and amid the incessant flashes of lightning and peals of thunder came a blinding glare and a deafening crash, setting fire to the roof of the cottage. Next day the peasant as he refully contemplated the smoking ruins, noticed a deep fissure in the garden leading to the root of a pine tree. Without knowing why he fetched a pickaxe and began digging until from the depths of the hole a mysterious blue light shone fitfully." is the beginning of a strange story from Lyons that, says the Paris correspondent of the London Standard, reads "just like a fairy tale."

Hurriedly making the sign of the cross, the man fled, but the following morning returning and saw the same curious gleam, like a star, from the depths of the furrow cleft by the thunderbolt. Thrusting his hand down he brought out a marvelous stone still darning uncanny rays of light.

Much disturbed in his mind, the honest peasant took his find to the parish priest, who said: "The stone came to you from heaven and it is the finger of God that placed it in your field. As long as you keep it you and yours will be safe from storms and evil chances." Faithfully respecting the priest's word, the stone has been even since religiously preserved by the succeeding generations of the family.

"But it has never brought much luck, the last survivors being now without a penny. The present possessor, a woman forty-five years old, is married and the mother of twelve children, five of whom are still living. While a thirteenth is expected shortly. A few years ago she and her husband left their native village and went to Gern, where they started a small business which failed," continued the story. "They then came to Lyons, where they have since lived a hand to mouth existence. Reduced to the last extremity of want, they decided to part with the famous thunderbolt stone, and took it to a well known jeweler."

"Petrified with astonishment at seeing such a splendid diamond in the possession of almost a beggar woman, the jeweler informed the police, and not till the family had sent to Switzerland for documents certifying that the diamond had really belonged to them for the last 200 years was the woman allowed to regain possession of the precious pebble."

"Since then she has been besieged from morning till night with absurd offers of the hundredth part of the value of the diamond, which has been examined and photographed by experts. What will probably be known as the 'thunderbolt' diamond—if there is any truth in the story and if it is a genuine stone—is said to show all the unmistakable signs of a rough diamond. It is one of the biggest known, weighing 290 carats, whereas the Grand Mogul diamond only weighed 280 carats."

"It will doubtless soon arrive in Paris and be submitted to the final judgment of experts who cannot err. Almost every famous diamond has its own pedigree and story, but none has ever remained hidden so long in the keeping of poverty stricken owners whose secretiveness is at least as strange as the reputed manner of the discovery."

Balzac's Fame.

Notwithstanding the lectures and appreciations of Henry James the genius of Balzac is not understood in all quarters.

There is one middle-aged woman who is particularly deficient in her knowledge of French fiction. She was calling on a friend who owns a very fine set of Balzac's works. In this edition the title of the volume, sometimes called "The Magic Skin," is translated "Wild Ass's Skin."

"I should like to sell the books," said the woman who owns them, "but I am afraid I couldn't get anything for them. It is an excellent edition, too, and cost a heap of money. The binding is especially fine."

The literary heathen held in her hand at that moment the volume labeled "Wild Ass's Skin." She looked at it curiously.

"Yes," she said in all sincerity, "I imagine it is. I don't know anything about the different bindings of books, but I suppose wild ass's skin is very good."

Expensive Lemonade.

A fond father whose youngest child attempted to blow himself up in a fireworks celebration has just settled a peculiar claim for damages.

The child's clothes caught fire in the street and he was saved from serious injury by the nimble wit of a man who soured him into a convenient barrel of liquid.

A week later the father got a bill for $20, which represented the cost of the barrel of ruined lemonade into which the youngster had been plunged. The father was willing to pay several times $20 for the preservation of his son, but to place that valuation on a barrel of street lemonade struck him as a bit of unconscious but delightful satire.

All His Time to Benevolence.
Nathan Straus, long a leading figure in the mercantile world, will devote the greater part of his time henceforth, it is said, to benevolent enterprises. He is deeply interested in extending the work of the relief bureau and other charitable undertakings which he has inaugurated in Palestine. He was born in Bavaria in 1848, and was brought to this country by his parent in 1854. After graduating from a business college he joined his father in importing pottery and glassware, in which business he is still interested. He originated in 1890, and has since maintained at his own expense, a system of distributing sterilized milk to the poor of New York city.

Fire Stopped Church Service.
The service was stopped when the Rev. C. J. Whitehead, vicar of South Newington, five miles from Hanbury, Oxfordshire, England, was informed that the vicarage was on fire. He pronounced the benediction, and accompanied by most of the congregation hurried to the house to remove furniture, books and valuables. News of the fire was sent to Bloxham, where a fire engine is stationed, and as most of the members of the brigade were at church, the service there was suspended also, the entire congregation troop out, despite an appeal from the vicar to remain.

Photographs are now regularly transmitted by telegraph and it is quite practicable to send a cinematographic series of a happening at noon in Paris so that it can be shown in a moving picture theater in Berlin the next morning. Speed in the transmitting and receiving is now the great problem.

Ants Which Plant and Bake.
The extraordinary habits of the honey bee have been known to naturalists. Certain species not only harvest and store in granaries the seeds upon which they feed, but actually plant and cultivate an annual crop of their food seeds. Still more remarkable stories are told of an ant that is common in Dalmatia, the Messor barbarus. According to Dr. Neger of the Dresden forestry school, this ant not only cuts leaves and gathers seed, but actually makes bread or biscuit. The seeds are first sprouted, then carried into the sun and dried, then taken back to the underground chambers, where they are chewed into a dough. The dough is then finally made into tiny cakes, which are baked in the sun, then carefully stored for future use. From these observations it would appear that the art of cooking is not confined to the human race.

Common Oriental Headwear.
The fez or tarbush is limited by no considerations of nationality or faith. It is the almost universal head covering of the eastern and southern lands of the Mediterranean and has been widely distributed in the still active diffusion of Mohammedanism. This type of felt hat without brim is of the utmost antiquity and seems to have undergone no marked change, save the tassel, from the early monumental record of the Euphrates valley. The designation fez, comparatively modern in its application, derives from the oasis the only source of dyestuffs which could give the peculiar shade of red most favored.

The Dream-Lion.
A Vienna professor is credited with saying that dreams are usually wish fulfillments. Maybe so. What about that childish dream in which the ferocious lion comes bounding along behind you, and you run as boy never ran before, and the lion closes the gap little by little, and then—all of a sudden—your legs grow limp, and your muscles turn to water, and your feet fray out, and the lion leaps—and you awake with a yell, if your voice isn't paralyzed, and every in the house wakes with you?

Suspended by a rope tied about his neck, the other end being thrown over a beam, the dead body of George Yodanis, aged 23 years of Fayette City was found late Tuesday night in the cellar of his little home. It is believed the man became despondent, possibly because of the lack of work, and took that means to end his life. He was a Russian and had a wife and one child.

WEENIE STUBS AND SUGAR TRAILS ROBBERS TO LAIR

Robbers have been making raids at Fredericktown and Millstown lately, and several stores in those towns have been broken into and large quantities of goods carried away. Tuesday night the Yourche meat market was broken into and goods and property to the amount of $150 stolen. Among the articles carried off was a sack of sugar and a lot of weenies. The robbers were evidently hungry and began eating the weenies, throwing the stubs away along the route. A leak in the sugar sack also left a trail, and officers traced the stolen goods to house No. 14 at Besco, a mining hamlet. The most of the stolen goods have been recovered. Arrests are likely to follow.

EXCAVATING IS BEGUN FOR NEW OFFICE BUILDING

Excavating work has been started by the Charleroi Lumber company at First street and McKean avenue for a new planing mill and office building. With this week the weekly euchres will be resumed at St. Jerome's Lyceum on Thursday nights. Previous to Lent these euchres proved popular and every week attracted crowds to the lyceum.

Ambulances.

Ambulances date from the closing years of the eighteenth century. Prior to that time surgical assistance did not reach the battlefield till the day after the engagement, or later, when, to a large proportion of the wounded, it was of no avail. About 1792 Larrey introduced the "flying field hospitals," capable of moving from place to place with speed, like the "flying artillery" of the time. Nobly assisted by Napoleon, Larrey brought his system to a fair degree of perfection. It was not until the great Civil war in the United States, however, that the ambulance system reached a thorough organization. Since then the system has of course, received many important improvements.
